Many Europeans Fear U. S.

Germany to Menace Point

(Europe is far from being washed up and can recover more swiftly than many people believe if granted necessary aid under the Marshall plan. The alternative to U. S. aid when the European nations present their needs could well lead to social and economic chaos. These are the conclusions expressed in the following article by Clark M. Eichelberger, As chairman of the American delegation to the recent conference of the World Federation of United Nations Associations in Czechoslovakia Eichelberger had the opportunity to make an intensive study of present conditions abroad.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(INS)—Many Europeans fear that the United States and Britain will rebuild Germany to a place where she can again menace Europe. They fear that the cost of occupation will prompt these two countries to establish too high a level for Germany industry. The fear of rebuilding Germany enters into contemplation of the Marshall proposals.

Obviously, when the nations of Western Europe have submitted their report as to their needs under the proposals, the United States must come forward with the credits necessary to carry out the program. Failure to do so could well bring Western Europe to economic and social chaos. Success in doing so may well lead to a greater degree of European economic unity than could have been anticipated some months ago.

However, the United States must make it very clear that the Marshall proposals will not be used to build Germany to a place where she will be more prosperous than her victims and where she can dominate Europe.

I have much sympathy with the French point of view on the Ruhr. I should like to see the Ruhr internationalized to the extent where it will be administered by the British, French and Americans, as well as by the Germans, so that its vast resources will be utilized for the good of all Europe.

The door must be kept open for the co-operation of the eastern countries which have not come under the Marshall proposals. In the future, United Nations machinery should be utilized to carry out some of the practical programs which these proposals necessitate.

Czechoslovakia is the nation in Eastern Europe that has most successfully maintained her ties and her sense of balance between east and west.

From the moment one enters the railroad station at Prague he is reminded of the close ties between Czechoslovakia and the United States. The station is the Wilson Station. In front of it is the cornerstone on which will be erected a statue of Woodrow Wilson to replace the one which the Germans destroyed. Beside the cornerstone is a bed of flowers, red, white and

TWO PARTIES—OR NONE?

Only one kind of nation has no political parties—dictatorships.

The United States has been a two-party country since its birth. Much of its strength and expansion has risen from that fact. The two-party system is one of the foundations of the American Way of Life.

There can be more than two parties. In this country, what has happened when "third" parties came along was that the majority of public sentiment split, and a minority faction came into power.

The evils of the multi-party system can be put in a single phrase: Every multi-party nation in the world today is either under dictatorship or in bankruptcy.

One of the far-reaching issues of the present Congressional fight in this district is the question of whether the two-party system can survive.

The Democratic party has been taken over—lock, stock and barrel—by outside interests who call themselves "independent," who claim allegiance to no party. Far from tracing their political beliefs back to Thomas Jefferson, as Democrats do, these individuals have accepted the theories and schemes invented by Marx and Lenin.

While dressing her doll, Patsy Fatzinger, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fatzinger, accidentally swallowed a safety pin and was rushed to Abington Hospital on Thursday evening.

The little girl, who was holding the open two-inch pin between her lips while arranging the clothing on her doll, was accidentally started and the pin lodged in her wind pipe. The girl's mother called Dr. Redding H. Rufe, of Chalfont, who rushed the girl to Abington Hospital.

Following an operation by Dr. Leil, the pin was removed and yesterday the girl was resting comfortably as can be expected.

The Duo Knitting Mills began production Monday morning at their recently completed building on Seventh street, south of Spruce, Perkasie.

The firm will manufacture high-grade full fashioned hosiery for men. Six large knitters have been installed and put into operation. In addition the necessary finishing department has been equipped and put into operation.

The firm began the construction of the building in April and the equipment was installed during the past two weeks.

The firm will specialize in natural silk and nylon hosiery with attractively hand-embroidered "clocks." The knitters are of the same type used for full fashioned hosiery for women.

Fifteen employees reported for work Monday and the force will be increased as equipment is ready.

Use of the high school athletic field for night football games was granted to two organizations at a meeting of the Bristol public school board and the board, last night, agreed to try for another year releasing children for religious instruction once a week.

The Revs. I. L. Clark, pastor of First Baptist Church; Rev. Edward G. Yeomans, pastor of Bristol Presbyterian Church; Rev. George E. Boswell, rector of St. James Church and the Rev. Paul Baird, rector of St. Mark's Catholic Church, attended the meeting and requested that the releasing of the children be continued. In their opinion the plan had worked out successfully and they desired that it be continued for another year.

There was a 100 percent attendance on the part of the Board members.

wright, and His Actress-
Wife, Are Separated

ONE OPINION IS GIVEN

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 3.—John M. Kirkland, Springfield Township (Bucks county) playwright and his actress-wife, Halia Stoddard Kirkland, of New York City, were granted a divorce yesterday in the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks county.

A number of Doylestown theatre patrons were somewhat concerned about parking their cars in front of a meter—at 6.45 p. m. for instance. Unless they come out of the theatre two hours later at 8.45 p. m. and place another coin in the meter or move on to another meter, they are subject to a fine, if the regulations as now in existence are carried out to that extent by the police.

To be safe motorists would have to wait until 7 p. m.—then place two nickels in the meter—before going to the show.

"Vet" Cashes Bond;
Robbed 1 Block Away

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—(INS)—Twenty-four-year-old Jeffrey Williams' terminal leave money went much faster than he expected it to go.

Williams cashed in his bond at the Northwestern National Bank in Philadelphia, started for home and was robbed a block from the bank of his $208.

"VETS" RUSH TO CASH
THEIR "LEAVE" BONDS

"Terrific Rush" is Way First Day of "Pay-Off" is Described by One Bank

AVERAGE IS OVER $200

A "terrific rush!" This is the way an assistant cashier at one of Bristol's banking institutions described the manner in which servicemen and women thronged the bank to cash terminal leave bonds yesterday, the first date they could be cashed. It was off to a good start today, the second day for cashing the bonds.

From 12 to 20 people were lined up at the windows of the Bristol Trust Co. throughout yesterday. It was stated, At the Farmers National Bank there was also what was described as "a good line-up" throughout the day, with two and three clerks being kept busy at all times.

At the Farmers National Bank 225 bonds were processed up until within 1½ hours of closing yesterday. The average amount was $250. It is stated, with the bonds ranging from $25 up to $700. Largest possible amount it is stated is in the neighborhood of $1200 or $1400.

One bond was issued per person at the time they were drawn up, any amount over figures divisible by $25 being paid in cash at that time. With the arrival of the first "cash-in day", banks were flooded yesterday with those eager to secure their funds.

The total amount of money paid out yesterday by Bristol Trust Company was in round figures $3,700. This was divided among 166 individuals, the average amount being $222. The largest amount of cash paid any one individual by this banking institution was $800 plus interest.

The bonds are compensation for furloughs they did not receive while still in the service, and nearly 9,000,000 veterans of World War II have been holding bonds against this day.

Yesterday hundreds of thousands called at banks, trust companies, and offices of building and saving fund associations throughout the nation to commence cashing the bonds. The total compensation for furloughs which they did not have is listed at $1,853,292,000.

Europe's Return To Normal Seen in Marshall Plan

blue ones, in a design arranged to spell the flag of the United States.

Some blocks away from the Wilson station is the old Parliament building. In front of it is another bed of flowers, red roses, in the design of Russia's red star.

These two flower beds are symbolic of the balance Czechoslovakia maintains between east and west. Her foreign policy must follow that of Russia. If we don't like it, the western powers can only thank themselves for selling Czechoslovakia out at the Munich Conference in 1938.

Eighty per cent of Czechoslovak trade is with the western nations, including the United States. Her cultural ties are close with the west as well as with the east.

In Prague I could buy anything I wished to read and say anything I wished. I found complete civil liberties there.

What should be the American policy toward Czechoslovakia? We should encourage the greatest possible trade between the two countries; if necessary, we should reduce our tariffs on items which the Czechoslovak most need to send to this country and extend credits when needed.

We should maintain the closest cultural contact as well. In maintaining her close links with the east and the west—with Russia and the United States—Czechoslovakia may perform an important service.

To talk about Europe being through and the necessity of millions of Europeans migrating is utter nonsense and typical of American first class philosophy. Europe is a very populous area of potentially hard-working people. Granted constructive help, their recovery may be more rapid than many people anticipate.

The people of Europe stand in admiration and awe of the strength and industry of the United States. The fundamental problem confronting the American people is to decide upon the manner in which American strength may be used for the maximum good for mankind and with the least fears on the part of others that our strength will be misused.

The best way to convince the world that American strength is not going to be used to dominate it is for this country to make it clear that its military forces, strategic bases, etc., exist to help us fulfill our obligations under the charter and not for unilateral action.

We must make the United Nations

the foundation of our foreign policy, not the instrument to be used when convenient and bypassed when convenient.

The United States must use every possible means for achieving an understanding with Russia through the United Nations. This is going to be difficult; it will take patience and understanding. I am in favor of compromise when necessary, but appeasement never.

Russian foreign policy seems to be the result of the combination of three factors: the Russians have fantastic misunderstanding of American policies. They are the victims of their own censorship and propaganda. While Americans believe that the control of atomic energy is absolutely necessary for the peace of the world, the Russians may fear that our motive for wishing such control is a desire to interfere with their internal economic system.

These fantastic fears can only be overcome by understanding and negotiation through the United Nations.

The Russians believe that the tidal wave of western capitalism is heading for collapse through depression. We must demonstrate the fallacy of this idea by avoiding a depression.

And finally, to the extent that the Russian policy is a desire for expansion dating from czarist days, we must make it very clear that Russian interests cannot be met by a policy of expansion in violation of United Nations obligations.

United Nations Associations exist in over thirty countries, some even in countries that are not yet members of the United Nations. It is necessary to create a great public opinion in support of the United Nations.

The foundation of such a movement has been clearly established. While recognizing the paralyzing effect of the veto, the Federation came out against a revision of the charter at this time because the effort would add to the division between east and west in the United Nations.

We agreed to support the charter and believe that the best way that it can be revised and strengthened is not textually but by developing overwhelming public support so that nations will fulfill their obligations generously and loyally.

Pay Honor To Those Who Died in 2 Wars

over the monument. Then two members of the drum and bugle corps played taps and in the far off distance the echo was played.

The parade assembled at the Legion home and proceeded down Radcliffe street through Walnut to Pond, from there to Otter and then to the cemetery. First to enter the monument area was the V. F. W. corps and they entered the gates single file to the somber slow roll of the drums. Members of the firing squad entered next and formed in front of the monument. The Legion corps followed in the same order as the V. F. W. and formed to the left of the monument just to the side of the Terchon Post.

When all members were in their allotted positions, Mr. Schmidt ordered the flag over the monument to be lowered to half mast. Following this came the invocation rendered by the Rev. Albert Glass, assistant rector of St. Mark's Church.

Prior to the ceremonies Mr. Schmidt voiced his approval of the Legion's stand for universal military training. He said that the "Legion advocated this program more than 20 years ago and that they were called war mongers at the time. Now, once more, they are pushing Congress to pass legislation to make this training compulsory so that we will never have to dedicate another monument of this sort."

Upon completion of the ceremonies, the flag was re-raised to the top of the pole and the groups assembled and paraded back to the Legion home where the honor roll dedicated to all those who were in the service was re-reveled. The honor roll is located in front of the lawn of the Legion home.

The ceremonies for the revealing of the honor roll at the Legion home were opened by Jacob Schmidt who said: "Comrades of the Legion and friends, we have maintained an honor roll with 3,100 names on it. This honor roll takes in all the area of Bristol Draft Book No. 1. You have heard 84 of the names read at the cemetery who paid the supreme sacrifice and we are gathered here now to reveal this honor roll."

Commander Boyd revealed the honor roll and said "our comrades in arms who by their devotion to duty and unselfish sacrifice have earned for them a place in the hearts and minds of our community rendering totally unnecessary this plaque, therefore as commander of the Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, I direct that this plaque be revealed for all time."

It was announced that the honor roll names will be kept until a new Legion building is erected and then will be placed in a permanent place in the building.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Samuel R. Gaskell
Pastor
Tullytown Methodist Church

Almighty God, the Creator of all goodness, kindle within our hearts heavenly desires. Too prone are we to listen to the siren voices calling us from virtue's paths, forgetting in our eagerness that the way of transgressors is hard. We desire the best, we ask for the best that life has to give; but in our ignorance with perverted minds, we look in the wrong places. "Thy ways are ways of pleasantness, and all Thy paths are peace." "Blessed are they who long for righteousness, they shall be filled." May we find the solid pleasures which none but Zion's children know. In the Redeemer's Name we pray. Amen.

with the following counties represented: Cameron, Clarion, Clearfield, Crawford, Erie, McKean, Mercer and Venango.

The program during the morning sessions will feature both national and state Republican speakers, and during the luncheon session the council women will be addressed by Republican statesmen and party leaders.

SOFTBALL TEAMS TO MEET HERE IN BIG TOURNAMENT

Organized Teams of Bristol and Vicinity to Play
Elimination Games

MUST ENTER AT ONCE

No Team Hastily Formed or
"Pick-Up" To Be Eligible

Organized softball teams of Bristol and vicinity will compete in an elimination tournament to determine the champion softball club of the Bristol area for the current season. Announcement and plans for this tournament, first of its type ever to be conducted in Bristol, was made by James Katz, manager of the Penn Auto and Sport Store, 227 Mill street, which is sponsoring the planned tournament.

Interest is running high among local teams, and already a dozen clubs have signified interest in entering the tournament with eight teams definitely lined up for the championship play. The tournament is open to all organized teams whether affiliated with the Lower Bucks Church League, Bristol Industrial League, or playing independent ball. However, they must be a duly recognized and organized team for no team hastily organized as a "pick-up" club will be eligible to participate in the tournament.

Deadline for entering the tournament is Thursday, September 4, nine p. m., at which time final plans and arrangements for the tourney will be discussed at a special meeting of all team managers and representatives at the Penn Auto and Sport Store, 227 Mill Street. Also, team rosters and umpire lists must be submitted at this meeting.

There was a brief meeting of the managers of many of the teams interested in entering the tournament at the Penn Auto Store on Saturday, August 30, at which Katz presented the plan of the tournament briefly and also made known some of the rules and regulations of the tourney.

Among these rules were that the games would begin at six o'clock with the starting date being either Friday, September 5, or Monday, September 8th. All games will be of seven innings with the home team being decided by the toss of a coin. Each team will supply one new Official Flatteam Softball for each game, a list of four players who can be used to umpire other games not involving their own team, and also a players list not to exceed 20 names. This players' roster must be complete and in the hands of the committee on or before nine p. m., Thursday, September 4th. Official Softball Rules for 1947 will govern play and conduct of each game.

Among the teams represented at this meeting on Saturday included Fifth Ward Sporting Club, Pete Mancini; Fifth Ward Ramblers, John Cordisco; Rohm & Haas Lab, No. 7, Bob Hastings; Rohm & Haas Plexiglas, H. Tranter; No. 1 Fire Company, F. Fuoco.

Other teams to enter the tournament, but who were not represented at the meeting include two teams from Fleetwings, Inc.; one team from Hunter-Wilson Companies; and one team from the Moose Home. The Manhattan Soap Company has indicated an interest in entering one or possibly two teams in the tournament as has the Philco Radio Plant No. 26, Croydon; and several of the teams from the Lower Bucks Church Softball League. Any other team desiring to enter this tournament should contact Jim Katz at the Penn Auto Store or by phoning either Bristol 3815 or 2816, or by contacting Lou Tomlinson, (phone Bristol 4635) who is assisting in the planning and running of the tournament.

At the present time the type of tournament to be arranged to determine the championship has not been officially decided upon, though two types have been drawn up. However, the kind to be used will depend largely upon the number of entrants in the tournament. Present interest, though, indicates that the number of teams will run somewhere between 16 and 20. If the number of teams entering the tournament is excessive, then the Elimination - Consolation Tournament plan will be used; but if it remains within the scope of not being too "bulky", then the Double-Elimination plan in which each team must be beaten twice before it can be eliminated from play, will be used.

The winner of this tournament, besides being crowned softball champions of the Bristol area, will also be the recipients of a beautiful trophy to be presented by the Penn Auto and Sport Store, which is sponsoring the tournament. No fee will be required to enter the tournament.

BADENHAUSEN LOSES

Winners Made Only Four Hits Off Deans But Took Advantage of "Breaks"

With Angelo Sallustio pitching air-tight ball in the pinches, the Democrat Club entered the finals of the second division of the Bristol Suburban League by beating the Badenhause team, 3-1, last evening on the Third Ward field.

Sallustio held the Badenhause aggregation to six hits, scattering these over five innings. Only in the third inning were the Baddies permitted more than one hit, Clifton getting a double and Hansen a single to account for their only tally. Clifton had two doubles off Sallustio, also getting one in the first inning.

The Democrat Club made but four hits off "Hughe" Deans but took advantage of the "breaks" in the first inning to score twice. In this frame, Field was hit with a pitched ball, advanced on an error, and moved around on hits by Keys and Purcell. Purcell's wallop was a two-bagger. Meade also got on via an error but Schaffe struck out for the third out.

Howard Keyes' second bingle, an error and two put outs gave the Democrat Club its third and last run in the third canto. Deans retired all the succeeding batters with the exception of Schaffe who singled in the sixth inning.

The Democrat Club will now meet the Harriman team in a three-game series to determine the second division championship. The champions of this division will meet St. Ann's, first division winners, in a five-game series.
